Further Information on 342/08 (12 December 2008) and follow-ups (10 February 2009; 03 March 2009) - Torture/ill-treatment/health concern/non-provision of medical care

RUSSIAN FEDERATION Zubair Isaevich Zubairaev (m), 30 years old

Zubair Zubairaev was again severely beaten on 10 and 12 April 2009 according to a report from his lawyer. When Zubair Zubairaev's lawyer visited him in the prison hospital in Volgograd on 23 April, he noticed signs of beatings on his client's body. The lawyer has stated that Zubair Zubairaev had severe bruising on his shoulders and across his chest. There were also signs of beatings on his lower back. The lawyer asked the prison hospital official to call for a doctor so that the injuries could be documented; however, the official reportedly refused to do so.

In August 2007, Zubair Zubairaev was sentenced to five years in a high security prison and sent to prison colony IAR-154/25 in Frolovo, Volgograd region. According to sources close to Zubair Zubairaev, he was tortured and otherwise ill-treated by prison colony officers throughout the period he was held there. This included the use of electric shocks. The sources reported that he was also repeatedly beaten with plastic bottles filled with water, as well as with truncheons and rifle butts, until he fainted, after which guards revived him in order to continue the beatings. No medical help was provided and the injuries he received were not recorded.

After making several complaints to the prosecutor's office about being tortured and ill-treated, Zubair Zubairaev was transferred to prison colony No 9 in Volgograd. In February 2008 he was admitted to prison hospital LIU-15 in Volgograd; however, the beatings and other ill-treatment from the prison officers reportedly continued. Zubair Zubairaev complained again about his treatment to the authorities. This resulted in an inspection of the prison hospital in October 2008, by the Volgograd regional prosecutor who found no evidence of misconduct by the prison authorities.

Officials at the prison hospital, as well as an official from the Volgograd Public Prosecutor's office, are said to have verbally threatened Zubair Zubairaev that if he does not stop complaining about his treatment in detention, his prison sentence will be extended or he might "accidentally" die in prison. They also reportedly made threats against his family, saying "something might happen" to his sisters. In February 2009, Zubair Zubairaev was reportedly severely beaten and placed in an isolation cell as punishment for allegedly possessing a painkilling tablet.
