

HOW TO GIVE A CRAP ABOUT HUMAN RIGHTS!

Water and sanitation are human rights! But 2.6 billion people lack access to adequate sanitation. From now until World Toilet Day – November 19 – let’s do something about it by asking people to GIVE A CRAP ABOUT HUMAN RIGHTS.

The bipartisan Water for the World Act would help provide 100,000,000 people with first-time, sustainable access to safe drinking water and sanitation within six years. Amnesty International USA and WaterAid America are teaming up to support the bill and tell people that water and sanitation are human rights.

Tell people in your community to GIVE A CRAP ABOUT HUMAN RIGHTS!

We’re asking everyone to:

1. Take the action yourself! Tell your senators to support the Water for the World Act by taking action at amnestyusa.org/giveacrap
2. Spread the word online! Tweet “I just gave a crap about human rights #giveacrapabouthumanrights”
3. Spread the word in your community!

Go to amnestyusa.org/giveacrap, download the “Give a Crap for Human Rights” flyer (see above) and print out lots of copies.

Tape the flyer up inside bathroom stalls on your campus or in your community!

If you have more time, you can:

4. Get creative! Use the flyer in whatever ways you can think of to raise awareness of lack of access to clean water and sanitation, spread the word that clean water and sanitation are basic human rights, and support the Water for the World Act.

No matter what you do ...

5. Let us know what you’re doing for the human rights to water and sanitation! Send your updates and photographs to demanddignity@aiusa.org.
6. Keep in touch! Find us on Facebook at facebook.com/demanddignity and facebook.com/wateraidamerica.
