HONG KONG: ACTIVISTS SUFFER UNDER SOLITARY CONFINEMENT (UA 11.26)

Imprisoned activists Chow Hang-tung, Jimmy Lai, and Owen Chow are among many detained in Hong Kong who have been or are currently subject to solitary confinement lasting weeks, months, or even in extreme cases, years. It appears that solitary confinement is sometimes imposed as a form of punishment, or applied arbitrarily and without sufficient justification, in violation of international human rights standards. Prolonged or unjustified solitary confinement may amount to torture or other ill-treatment.

We call on Commissioner Wong to immediately and unconditionally release Chow Hang-tung, Jimmy Lai, and Owen Chow and to stop imposing unlawful solitary confinement on them.
